

Reserve Officer Applications Reconsidered

Sixth Army Headquarters today announced that the 70,000 applicants for Regular Army Commissions who were declared eligible for appointments under the first integration program are again being considered for openings in the Officer Corps and are urged to contact the Adjutant General immediately if a statement of their present status has not been received.

To insure equal opportunity to all applicants, whether applying under the new officer integration program or those qualified by the initial processing earlier this year and now being reconsidered. The Adjutant General has distributed a supplemental information form, addressed to the applicant's permanent home address, which must be filled out and returned on or before November 30, 1946, or opportunity for reconsideration will be forfeited.

The Adjutant General disclosed that many of these forms have not been received by applicants under consideration for appointment to the Regular Army because no forwarding instructions were left at former address in case of change of station or separation from the service.

Regular Army Commissions and the status of applications under the new integration program should be directed to The Adjutant General, Attn: AGSO-R, Washington 25, D. C.

FLAW RECITALS—Marie Jarle Rickard, shown above in a pose suggestive of a Hawaiian dance routine, and Edward T. Rickard of Three Arts Studio, presented a dancing and dramatic recital Friday evening, Nov. 15, at 8 o'clock in the Torrance Woman's clubhouse. Piano recitals were presented in a recital on Nov. 18, in the Three Arts Studio.

Salvation Army In Appeal For Throw-Aways

Plans for an intensified appeal for increased collection of old clothing, furniture and other commodities are announced by Raymond Green, chairman of the Salvation Army salvage campaign which will reach its peak during the week of November 17 to 24. The drive is designed to bring more materials into the workshop of the Men's Social Center at 1879 Alamitos ave., in Long Beach.

A new building rapidly reaching completion will provide work for 100 employees in the Army's rehabilitation program which offers a home, nutritious meals, warm beds and wages for persons who seek to solve their economic problems through work.

Green, a member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, revealed that reconditioned articles resulting from the campaign will be distributed to Salvation Army stores in this and neighboring communities, where their sale will provide funds for the self supporting center.

Cooperation of organizations, churches and volunteer workers, including a trained speakers bureau, will give the campaign added impetus throughout the Torrance district.

Naval Reserve Given Uniform Allowance

The U. S. Naval Reserve this week received official information from Navy department in Washington, D. C., that any member of the reserve may at his own request resign from either the volunteer or organized reserve upon a 30-day notice.

Those resigning, it was explained, must immediately register with their local draft board after their resignation has become effective.

C. A. Darrow, C.S.M., Torrance reserve organizer, reports uniforms and other necessary articles of clothing or a cash allowance for clothing purchase are provided officers and men attached to either Volunteer or Organized Reserve units.

Those interested in joining the reserve may contact Darrow at 2066 W. 220th st.

Duck Season To Open Nov. 23 In Three Counties

Duck and geese hunting season will open November 23 in San Bernardino, Riverside and Imperial counties and will continue until January 6, 1947. All other counties in the State of California started their seasons October 26 and will conclude December 9.

The most optimistic conditions prevail this year but the duck limit is seven, one of which may be a wood duck. Hours of shooting are from half an hour before sunrise to half an hour before sunset.

Migrations of the Polynesians over the Pacific will be studied by a University of California anthropologist who will go to Fiji soon.

Food Handlers Schools To Be County Program

Food handlers' schools for restaurant and cafe owners and employees are to be inaugurated in Los Angeles county under the direction of the California state department of education in cooperation with the Los Angeles county health department, David W. Colfelt, chief sanitarian for the Torrance health district has announced.

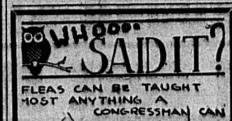

Offered by the adult education division of local school districts, the course is aimed at informing food handlers of the best and most sanitary way in which food should be prepared and served. State and local sanitation ordinances will also be outlined.

Present plans call for four two-hour sessions held in strategic locations throughout the county with special lectures and demonstrations by food distributors, sanitarians, as well as well as State educators.

Coordination of the program is under the direction of Robert F. Kurrie, special supervisor in the bureau of business education for the State department of education.
